Uncle Dan From Democrat River Says

Dear Mister Editor:
 Up at the country store Saturday night Ed Doolittle was giving us a piece of his mind on what he thought about them Congressmen messing in the dental profession.

Back during the war Ed got himself a set of store teeth from a mail order house. Ed says the uppers has got broke up over the years on account of him eating so much store bought meat, so he orders himself some new uppers.

He got a note from the mail order house saying it was now a gin the law to send store teeth through the mail. It seems a Congressman from Georgia ordered a complete set from company and they sent him two uppers and no lowers. When he tried to get it straightened out the mail order house had done gone out of business. So this Congressman gets a law passed that you can't send store teeth through the mail no more. Ed was mighty upset about it, allowed as how if he had them two upper teeth back he wouldn't even mess with store bought teeth in the first place.

Under our system of Government ever jackass has got a right to express his opinion on things that's going on in the country. I'd like to express mine about this English fellow that's making this lecture tour over here. He says the time ain't far off when nobody but the good farmers will be allowed to use the land. He says they've had that system in England since 1828. If England is going to swap us them kind of ideas for the money we're sending over there, she can keep her ideas and we'll keep our money.

According to his plan, only the farmer and nigger that worked the hardest, got up the earliest and stayed up the latest would be allowed to use the land. That could have terrible implications, Mister Editor. What if it applied to other lines? What would happen if only the lawyer that worked all the time was allowed to practice? Or think what would happen to the politicians if only them public servants that stayed on the job all the time was allowed to hold office. We'd have to hold elections ever ten days to get new ones and we'd be in a constant replacement program on everything from politicians to newspaper editors.

The next time you write your Congressman, Mister Editor, you tell him they ought to be a little more careful with the let in this country from England. A plan like this fellow adlocates would ruin fella's like me whose rheumatism gets worse about planting time every spring and lasts till harvest time is over. In America a fella has got to put up with his wife's kniffoles, but he ain't got to put up with visiting Englishmen.

Your truly,
 Uncle Dan

Historical Programs

Florida's colorful early days will be re-lived in a 13-week series of radio dramas titled "Sunlit Years," being broadcast over Radio Station WSWN each Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

The program features authentic stories of Florida history and were produced by the University of Miami Radio and Television department in cooperation with Florida Power & Light Co.

The plays have been endorsed by leading educators and historians and have proved a valuable aid to young people studying the history of Florida.

Enrollments Up From September

Increases in Glades school enrollments were recorded this week as The Herald checked for a comparison of school population after the holiday recess against the September enrollment.

In all White Schools in the Glades there were 3,088 students enrolled at the latter part of September last year. As of the first day of school in the new year, there were 3,378.

Enrollments fluctuate from day to day and this means some periods of overcrowding followed by a relatively normal number of students in school. Much of the difference involves transfers among the schools in the Glades.

Sharpest increase was noted at Osceola Center where the population jumped 80 persons. Only Belle Glade High showed a drop in enrollments.

Most schools, except Canal Point Elementary where the turnover is slight, expect considerable increases in enrollments during the next 30-60 days.

Classrooms are generally crowded with more than the suggested 30 pupils per class. Most institutions expect the crowded conditions to get worse before it gets better.

Kettler Succeeds

Plans are being processed for five new classrooms at Belle Glade School, two high school classrooms and three elementary rooms.

In addition, four rooms for Lake Shore Elementary, where the shortage is acute, and five for Lake Shore High are in the works. All will be ready by next September, he thought.

Earwood will preside Jan. 11-13 at a state meeting of school board members for a short course on problems of members. The meetings will be held at Tallahassee.

Celery Plant Not

(Continued from Page One) Nathan Mayo said once that no muck in the state was worth less than $100 per acre and

SPARKLING PUNCH (or was it sour?) is being served in the scene above during the young people's dance Dec. 29 at the Belle Glade Army. Mrs. Ruby Kirk (left) observes as Mrs. Lila Spence serves another round to two happy young folk. Mrs. Spence was also responsible for a lion's share of the decorations. Over 120 of the Glades younger set enjoyed the evening.

Salute to FLORIDA COUNTIES

Born of a feud over river commerce with Apalachicola, Calhoun County was formed in 1838. Income is derived from general farming, lumber and livestock. "Raising" worms for fish bait has reached the proportion of a major industry. Calhoun County is noted too, for its tupelo honey, outstanding beef and dairy cattle business, and profitable tung oil industry. The Dead Lakes and picturesque Apalachicola River provide splendid hunting and fishing. County seat is Blountstown, named after an Indian chief and his first settler.

In progressive Calhoun County, and throughout Florida, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of the people of Florida, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing "self-regulation" program.
